DR SAMPLE, OF MINNEAPOLIS, ON "THE TEST OF

DISCUSSING "CHRIST BEFORE PILATE."

DR. VAN DYKE WOULD CALL IT "PILATE BEFORE CHRIST"-A GREAT PICTURE.

In the Brick Presbyterian Church Dr. H. J. Van

Dyke, jr., spoke on "Pilate Before Christ." His text was in St. Luke's Gospel: "And the whole company of them rose up and brought him before Plate." The subject was suggested by Muniacey's painting. In the introduction to his sermon he said:

of them rose up and brought him before Plate." The subject was suggested by Munhaesy's painting. In the introduction to his sermon he said:

Three men were immediately concerned in the death of Jesus Christ, Judias Iscariot, a greetly traitor: Canaphas, a cruel bigot; and Fourish Pinne—what was he? This question is one that has often engaged the interest of thoughtful people. For it is at once apparent that there are conflicting elements in the claracter of this man. The problem of his personality is complicated, and therefore stimulates our moral curiosity. He is not to be classed with Judias or Calaphas, for the wickelness of their hearts declares itself at once. But the secret of Plate's discrete less below the surface, and the puzzle is to know how a man with so much good in him could have acuted so badly; how a judge who had so keen a sense of justice could have consented at last to such a flagrant tingular.

This inquiry is awakened with fresh interest just now by the presence in our city of a greet picture, which locals in a masterly way with this very point. I call it a great picture because, after all our criticisms have been made, after we have stated our o jections to the artist's method and to his coloring, after we have expressed our deep disastisfaction wind the type of face which he has chosen to represent the Savour of the World, it still remains true that the Painting creates a profound impression. It is potent, intense, throbbing with life, but it has been misnaned. It shows us Plate before Christ. And this is the true aspect of that seems before the Francisium. The prisoner is the judge. His position is secure, serve and untroubed he stands, upon the throne of his destiny, it is Plate who is being weighed in the bulance. It is his fate for his world and the next which trambles on the narrow edge of decision. How keenly the painter has capressed this, Look at that heavy thick set figure, with its begins and seried on the Benia which represents, for Judea, the imperial throne. All the misrry po

Such a man was Governor Pilate. For the character, which this picture re cals to us is true to history. Pilate was a moral coward.

Dr. Van Drie then proceeded to sum up what is known of Pilate from secular accounts, and then traced the sacred harrative down to the point where he is seen, as in the picture scated on the Benia to pronounce the final sentence. Leaving then "the miscrable man, the unhappy Pilate, to his God," the proacher discussed the subject of moral cowardice that threatens men in modern life.

HOW MR. LLOYD WAS IMPRESSED. The Rev. William Lloyd, in the Central Congregational Church, spoke upon the words: "And the whole multi- organ is the handiwork of E. & G. G. Hook and Hastings,

The Century Club's reception to M. Munkacsy on Satur day night was an extremely pleasant and successful affair. President Huntington made a graceful and appre-ciative address of welcome in English and Professor Roeiker one in German. M. Munkacsy replied in French as follows:

I regret, gentlemen, that I must express my sentiments in a language which is neither yours nor mine, but in one which I hope will have your sympathy. In no language could I tell you how greatly I am honored and flattered by this expression, so generous and kindly and I thank you from a full heart for this happy experience. It shows me that an intellectual bond exists throughout the globe among all who are an mated with love of the beautiful. Be assured that in the few days for which I have had the honor to be among you, I have felt more and more that I am in the midst of a people of heart and intelligence, a free people whom all the world admires. Allow me also, gentlemen, to drink to the art of America, now born and advancing so rapidly.

REASONABLE AND UNREASONABLE DOUBT.

The Sunday night lecture at St. Paul's Church at Flityninth-st. and Ninth-are, was given by the Rev.
W. Elliott. The subject was: "Doubt Rensonable and Unreasonable," The lecturer said that a reasonable man doubts when there is lack of evidence as to factor, in reference to doctrine, lack of authority in the teacher. It is often the part of manliness and intelligence to doubt: to demand further proof, to examine the credeutians of a claimant to authority, credulity, supplicity. to doubt; to demand furner proof, to examine the dentials of a claimant to authority, credulity, stupidiparty shavery, race prejudice, family tradition, should stand in the court of reason and be subjected to the creamination of intelligent, reasonable doubt. Bould comes unreasonable when it is made an end in itself, then the a sour to investigation. The soul in doubt is examination of intelligent, reasonable and end in itself. It should be a spur to investigation. The soul in doubt is in a state of disease, and Nature demands certifude for a saind mental condition. Hence, too, the fundamental principles of thought are never doubted by a healthful mind. A sceptical mind is due to unreason; to the delusion that one has a right to doubt everything, as well after as before investigation, and to the reaction of a vicious life on the mental facilities. There are men who would sincerely rejoice could they but believe that the only sure thing is money and cash the only God; that semand enjoyment is the end of man. Yet it cannot be demied that there are seemingly honest sceptics.

Mental freedom is certifude. Doubt, even when intelligent, is by no means as necessary to the free spirit of in quiry as certifude concerning fundamental principles to start with. Life is defined to be the power of motion; and of mental life this is especially true. No motion supposes a fixed point of departure, a directio, ind an objective point. But the mind infected with chre, i doubt can no longer exercise the mental functions of life; it stands at the cross-roads and missembly looks at one and another road and can but ask which is the road without being able to profit by the answer. Men should seek the truth honestly and energetically with the perfect assurance that sometime and somehow honest inquiry will be completely successful.

In the Church of the Strangers the Rev. D. C. F. Deems preached upon the words, "The Son of Man is come to seek and save that which was lost," saying, in part:

Here is the mission of Jesus spoken to Zaccheus. Now, Zaccheus was a mean man and did not scruple to aid the enemy in collecting tax from his own people. Asexander's mission was to unite all nations of the world into one family. Napoleon followed him with his idea of universal conquest. Men and women to-day have their missions. And the text gives a missionary who lifts Himself above all the homare paid him by angels, and comes down to a liftle planet to save, to give the race back the immortality it had lost. No man can have eternal life who does not believe in Jesus. The characteristics of the impulse of Jesus resolve themselves into love. The essence of his mission was love. Brains are nothing but a means of carrying out the impulse of the heart. Learned He was, but His heart was his motor.

And then, His love was comprehensive, inclinding all kinds of people. Some men are unlovable. That siang word, "cussedness," expresses some men's character too well. Oh, for a polite, gentlemanly word to express the whole of it! These people are hard to love, but Jesus takes hold of ail. The one for you and me to try our love on is not the sweet, lovable person, but the worst, roughest one in the city. Not speculating on second probation, and what will become of the heathen who have not heard of the historic Christ, wasting thought in that, we misst do as did Christ, going down to people, and quit speculating. No man who has not felt that he is lost can be saved. Drunkard and millionaire, both, and all between, must be conscious of their lost condition, or they cannot be saved. Christ came only to save the lost, and no others. If a man is not lost he has no right in Christ's atonement. It may be all right to spend a dollar for chars during the week and give ten cents for God in the collection. It may show about how vivid an impression your lost-ness has on your mi

A NEW ORGAN IN DW. CUYLER'S CHURCH. The congregation of the Lafayette Avenue Presbyterian Church in Brooklyn (Dr. Cuyler's) heard the tones of their new organ for the first time at yesterday's services. Mr. McCarthy prophesied that Mr. George would be Governor first and then President of the United States. The Rev. Mr. Powers, Dr. Gunn and others made speeches.

Perhaps the strongest feature of the petroleum situation is the scarcity of stocks on the other side of the Atlantic. The foreign dealer has been buying only as his immediate needs became imperative, encouraged by the rise in the production of American crude and sustained by the competition of Rus-sian oil. But he may have pursued this policy a little too iong for wisdom. The production here has evidently started on the diminuendo and at this season of the year the power of on the diminuendo and at this season of the year the power of Russia to depress our prices by competition is reduced to a minimum. The stocks held at the continental ports are much below those of last year, and with any sort of an active movement to the interior of Europe they will be depleted to an extent which will force a liberal buying of the American article at improving prices. The decline in the production of the Washington field continues, but possibly it may not now show the same ratio of loss as it has done for the past few weeks. ### THE MONEY MARKET.

The United States Treasurer last week received from enstoms $3.614,293 and from internal revenue $1,977,589; total from both $5,591,882 against $6,192,840 for the preceding week. Comparatively small as the week's receipts were, the Treasury's cash balances were increased $640,693; but the available balance was reduced $889,447 because of the additional transfer of $1.530,140 to the fund held for the retirement of National bank notes. That fund now, including the 5 per cent redemption fund, amounts to $95,972,000, so that while the actual cash balance exclusive of $100,000,000 reserve held against outstanding legal-tender notes, amounts to $191,323,757, the balance available for reduction of the debt is only $95,351,579; but that sum is $34,000,000 greater than the available bal ance of November 30, 1885. The gold balance shows a gain of $859,483 made by an accumulation of $1,785,143 bullion less an issue of $875,660 certificates. This gain, however, probably is only apparent. A part of the foreign gold received at the New-York Assay Office has obtained credit at Washington a day or two before the corresponding issue of certificates by the Sub-Treasury ir payment for the same has been advised. A loss of $198,253 to the legal-tender balance was made by a loss of $218,252 notes, less the retirement of $20,000 certifi cates. The addition to the silver circulation a little ex ceeded the weekly purchase of buillon, the balance being reduced $79.814 by an issue of $778,239 certificates, less an accumulation of $698.425 bullion.

Subjoined are the results of Saturiay's statement as compared with those of the statement of November 13:

made sharp advances and were unusually active. The general market was simply strong and appreciating, except the coal stocks, and they, except Reading (the reorganization scheme for which is expected to be promulgated in a few days), were easy if not weak. The break in the price of Central of New-Jerney was due to causes special to itself. At the close the market showed some indications of halting in the advance, but it is not probable that there will be any decline beyond a moderate reaction. It is doubtful if even a break in the prices of some of the stocks which last week advanced so rapidly would exert any material influence on the general market. The total sales for the week agreegated 2.869.959 shares, against f.900.095 shares for the preceding week.

Subjoined is our annal table giving the highest, lowest and final prices and number of shares sold for the week, together with the final prices of awels ago of fifty-three active or representative stocks, prefixed by the closing prices of November 21, 1885.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE MARKETS.

FEATURES OF NEW-YORK DEALINGS. The grain market developed further strength on Saturday with wheat notable for its improving tendency. The foreign markets are daily becoming firmer and the indications of the heavy export movement which is likely to last for several weeks to come, at least, are multiplying. Adde to these genweeks to come, at least, are multiplying. Added to these general influences, the speculation in wheat was benefited by the expectation that the next visible supply statement may show a decrease. Cash wheat rose \( \frac{1}{2} \) \( \frac{1}{2} \) cent and the purchases for export amounted to hearly 200,000 bushels. The options were loss active than on Friday, but the tone was strong and last prices were the best, scoring gains of \( \frac{1}{2} \) for February at $5\cdot a$, and $1\cdot a$ to the control of the CHICAGO, Nov. 20 (Special).—A Wall Street man telegraphed yesterday that he was going to turn his speculating clientage over into wheat. He explained that the New-Yorkors had been builts in stocks, buils in cotton, builts in coffee and builts in oil. Money had been made on the buying site of all these. Wheat hat had no advance and it was his idea, expressed in his dispatch, that the built movement would soon affect wheat. There is to be the interesting spectacle, at any rate, of the There is to be the interesting spectacle, at any rate, of the Fast meeting the West in a struggle over the price of wheat. The first buying that was done was by firegas, and was the buying of his New-York clients, Lester has followed suit, and now nearly all the New-York houses are on the bull side. The Northwest is still selling wheat, however, and still fooding this ann every other market with bear talk that is sometimes so vehement as to be ridiculous. December wheat was almost all day above 75 cents. At one moment it was up to 75 a cents, the call price last night. Most of the day December was either just at 75 cents or a small fraction below it. The estimates on the visible supply here generally put the increase in wheat on Monday at a small flagure, some even conjecturing that there would be no increase at all. This was one of the buil influences. Provisions are acting a little unsteady. Pork for January was down to 519 07 y to-day and acted as if it might be lower next week. Two hundred and fifty thousand hogs are anticipated for next week. Puts on December wheat, 75 cents; calls, 73 cents; puts on May corn, 41 5 5 1, 5 cents. Calls, 75 cents; puts on May corn, 41 5 5 1, 5 cents. The receipts to-day aggregated 180 cars of week, 175 of corn and 75 of the A. The Articipated receipts for Monday are 145 cars of wheat, 190 of corn and 75 of the.
